I made a dmg installer for an app on the mac. Now I want it to auto update as well. I am the only person who uses the app. I think the best option is to turn that mac app into a continuous to-do list, but I want to know whether I can set it up to auto update the program. Thanks in advance. A: You probably won't be able to do it automatically unless you buy it from the developer or have a paid license. With paid license, you can specify how frequently the app should be updated. Q: How to: How to fail the test if the timeouts are greater than the given time class clsTest { def testFailsWhenTimeoutExceeds(def dl, def timeout, def calls) { def err = new Exception() def exc = new Exception() def res = new Exception()
