Adult vs. Embryonic Stem Cells

- One major difference between adult and embryonic stem cells is their ability to form different kinds of tissue.
- Embryonic stem cells can become all cell types of the body because they are pluripotent.
 - Pluripotent: Having the ability to give rise to all of the various cell types of the body.
- Adult stem cells under normal conditions can only become a specific kind of tissue
 - E.g. skin stem cells can only become more skin
